Multigenre Research Project

Think Piece

11A Literature/Composition, Mrs. Hamilton

9/24/08

Now that we have completed Day 3 of our multigenre research project, it is time to stop and reflect. Please compose a mini-essay following the guidelines and outline below; each paragraph should be 6-10 sentences.

Type your paper; spell check carefully. Print a copy and then post to our class blog.

Paragraph 1

What have you learned about your topic in the last three days? What, if any, information has been surprising? What resources have you used for information? In your opinion, what has been the best source of information so far? How do you feel about your electronic notecards? How are the electronic notecards working for you?

Paragraph 2

Describe your progress---what have you accomplished so far? Are you ready to start drafting the text portion of your paper and creating your multigenre products? What do you need to do each day in order to complete your paper on Wednesday? Please discuss your "game plan" for you what you plan to do each day in order to finish on time. You may want to look at the checklist of requirements and tasks you received on Monday in class.

Paragraph 3

What are you proud of that you have accomplished so far? What has been challenging or frustrating? How well do you think you have used your library time? Have you done any work outside of class? If so, please discuss.

Paragraph 4

What kinds of multigenre products do you think you are going to create to represent what you have learned about your topic? Please identify the 10 possible "learning artifacts" you think you might create to show/represent key learnings or knowledge you have gained about your topic through your research.
